

Honeywell EAC delivers impressive reliability

Series 2000 Electronic Air Cleaner meets reliability goals

In June 1998, the Honeywell F50 series 2000 air cleaners were introduced with a redesigned power supply and a gasket to seal the door frame. While the reliability of the F50 has always been good, now it is even better, with in-warranty return rates for the first year running at about 1%!

With these low failure rates, your chances of a call-back after installing a Honeywell electronic air cleaner are pretty slim! But if you do have a problem - remember - the F50 now has a 5-year warranty on parts.
